

Prison Fellowship Press Release - 14 February 2024

Prison Fellowship's Peter Holloway to step down from position as CEO in June 2024.

Prison Fellowship has announced that Peter Holloway will be stepping down from his position as CEO of Prison Fellowship England and Wales at the end of June 2024, after eight and a half years.

Peter Holloway has shared, 'After much prayer and thought, I have decided it is time for me to leave Prison Fellowship (PF). It is a cliché to say that it has been a privilege and a joy to serve alongside PF's wonderful staff and volunteer team, but this is the truth. I will remain fully active and in post until 30th June, allowing the Board time to find my successor. Thanks to God's faithfulness, PF is now in a strong place and I will continue to pray for PF's mission to love people in prison in Christ's Name. In the few months following my departure from PF, I plan to take a sabbatical. In this time, I will be resting and asking God how I can continue serving those who are most vulnerable.'

Chair of the Board, Peter Harlock, has added, 'As a Board of trustees we will immediately start to shape and organise a formal search process for the right person to take over this vital CEO role from Peter. God has been wonderfully faithful in using and guiding and enabling PF in this ministry in this past season with Peter for the sake of men and women in prison. We can prayerfully trust that God walks before us for this next season too, in preparing the right person to take on this role.'
